Altman: Freeze Won't Stop UCF

Despite a gloomy forecast caused by possible state budget cuts, the sun will continue to shine on UCF, President Steven Altman told the Faculty Senate, Sept. 6.

Florida's hiring freezes and talk of cutbacks in spending will not stop the university's "momentum," he told the senate at its first meeting of the academic year.

"I'm looking forward to a good year and a productive year," he said. "I'm optimistic. I see a lot of momentum. The quality of the faculty continues to rise. Students here are better than ever."

Earlier that same day, a directive from Tallahassee arrived on Altman's desk, outlining a number of cost-cutting steps that were to be taken by the state's universities until the administration commission meets on Tuesday, Sept. 25 to discuss the deficit.

Among other steps, universities were encouraged to continue recruiting for jobs but not to offer positions, to withhold making service contracts and to limit travel.

"This is not happy news to bring to the first meeting of what we hoped would be a positive year," Altman said.

"I look forward, still, to what we'll be able to get done this year. I think we'll continue doing a very fine job and continue the momentum we started."

Altman's optimism was echoed by others.

"There isn't a more exciting university in the United States than the one we're in," said Glenn Cunningham, Faculty Senate chairman.

The budget crisis is temporary, he said. "This doesn't mean we can't do a lot of things this year. I believe we can."

"The freeze is a short-term problem," said Richard Astro, provost and vice president for academic affairs.

UCF's vital signs are healthy, all three men agreed.

Student enrollment is expected to reach 21,500 this fall, and could "easily have been 23,000 or more," Altman said, noting that the enrollment of minority students is climbing and so are college entrance test scores.

Those factors are "good signs, ones I believe will continue," he said.

The university will continue to be accepted in the community, he said, adding that efforts will continue to be made to further bolster minority enrollment and research, as well as to find ways to build staff and faculty morale and attitude. He said a task force has been created to study the values and ethics at the university and to examine safety on the campus.

Altman made a point to praise the work of the faculty, and pledged to support the senate.

"The faculty did a great job last year," he said.

Altman said that besides the state's budget woes, other challenges UCF is facing include not having enough money to support the large number of students attending the university, working to find ways to raise salaries on campus, and trying to make bureaucracy more responsive.

Education A Bargain At Central Florida

Adding to the distinction of being listed last fall in U.S. News & World Report as one of the top 15 regional colleges or universities in the South, UCF has been designated a "best buy" in another national college guide that targets students who want to "keep your tuition costs down - and your educational quality up."

The latest honor was given by Barron's Educational Series Inc. in its recently published 658-page directory, 300 Best Buys in College Education.

The author, Lucia Solorzano, describes the volume as "a guide to 300 myth-breakers, schools that breach the supposed link between college price and college quality."

Although some schools are better known than others, Solorzano writes, "all deserve recognition where it counts: in the performance of their faculties, the depth and comprehensiveness of their curricula, the preparation of their students for lives after graduation, and the prices they charge for their services."

The two pages devoted to UCF begin by crediting UCF with youthful

University Cuts Spending; 60 Jobs Unfilled

If the desk next to yours is empty, don't expect it to be occupied any time soon. UCF isn't hiring.

Sixty UCF job vacancies will remain unfilled while lawmakers try to figure out a way to shrink Florida's $500-million deficit. The freeze is one of seven restrictions placed on state-run universities and colleges until at least Tuesday, Oct. 9, when Gov. Bob Martinez and his Cabinet are scheduled to discuss the budget deficit.

In a memorandum addressed to the university community, President Steven Altman said restrictions here will remain in effect until he receives new guidelines.

"We anticipate that the budget will be reduced, and we have developed plans to deal with this likelihood. We hope the ... restrictions can be lifted then, with operations reflecting the adjusted budgets."

John Bolte, vice president of administration and finance, said that the cuts will force the university to be extra careful when spending money.

"When you're talking about cutting back there's bound to be an impact on the operation of a university," he said.

"What we're not going to do is cut any services that are essential."

Though just 27 years old, the former Florida Technological University has used the energy of youth to place itself in the forefront of 21st century universities."

Official Memorandums

Publication of these memorandums and announcements about university policy and procedure constitutes official notice to faculty and staff.

TO: All Faculty, college of health and professional studies
FROM: Belinda McCarthy, dean
SUBJECT: Internal Search for Associate Dean for Administration

The college of health and professional studies invites applications from the college of health and professional studies for an associate dean for administration.

The associate dean works with the dean to develop and coordinate budgets, space, and personnel matters for the dean's office, eight departments, and several institutions or programs. He or she supervises the dean's office budget, the processing of financial forms, and provides budgetary assistance to the COHPS departments, institutions, and programs when requested. The person is responsible for monitoring and coordinating space allocations, utilization, and renovations for COHPS. He or she also develops a variety of quantitative and analytical reports for the dean and performs other duties and special projects assigned by the dean.

The associate dean supervises a budget analyst.

This is a 12-month position which reports directly to the dean of the college.

Qualifications include:

1. An earned doctorate in a college of health and professional studies discipline;
2. Tenure in a health and professional studies discipline.

In addition, applicants must be familiar with budgeting processes and procedures at UCF, and must be able to demonstrate experience in managing both E&G and C&G accounts.

Interested faculty should send a letter of application and a resume to Belinda McCarthy, dean, college of health and professional studies, room HPB 214. Application deadline is Friday, Sept. 28.

From: Bill Branch, computer services
Subject: Computer Services User's Fair

UCF Computer Services will be offering its second Computer Services Administrative User's Fair in the Student Center Auditorium, Thursday, Sept. 27, 10 a.m.-4 p.m. We have an abundance of computer services available to ease administrative burdens of UCF's faculty and staff. Our annual user's fair is an opportunity for you to learn how we can help.

We will cover everything from how to get started using computer services to descriptions of all the services and computer systems that are available for your use. We'll even cover what needs to be done to implement new systems and services or to modify existing ones to suit your needs. Live computer terminals and PC's will be available to demonstrate systems and documentation will be available later. We expect to cover the following topics:

User Services

Getting started. Obtaining hardware. Making sure there's something to hook it up to make it work. Making sure you order all required components. Getting computer accounts and User ID's. Learning how to log on and off. How to obtain the "screens" or applications that you need. How to obtain help when things go wrong.

Administrative Computer Services (General)

Where we do our administrative processing. What kinds of "screens" and applications are available. What kinds of data and software are needed.

Financial Services Systems

State Automated Accounting System (SAMAS). How to handle inter-departmental transfer of funds. How the cashiering system works and how it interfaces with registrations and student financial aid. How grants are administered. How computers are used in student financial aid. The telephone billing system. Purchasing systems. Accounts Receivable.

Business Systems

Personnel. Payroll. Budget. University Relations and Alumni Relations. Physical Plant systems. Traffic decals and citation systems. Leave.

Student Systems

Registration. Student Advisement System. Class rolls. Master Class Schedule. Grades. Admissions. Graduation. Withdrawals. Test scores — how they're obtained, posted to student records and processed. Transcripts.

United Way Campaign Begins; UCF Sets Record $40,000 Goal

United Way's annual fund-raising campaign will be held on campus Friday, Sept. 21 through Friday, Nov. 9.

This year's goal is to raise $40,000 at UCF, the highest in the campaign's 10-year history here. Thirty-nine percent of the university's full-time employees approached by United Way contributed to last year's $33,000 goal.

"We don't twist people's arms to contribute. We don't pressure," said campaign co-chairman Robert Davis, professor of communication.

"We try to have personal contact. It is largely a matter of asking. The key is asking."

This month, full-time employees will receive pledge cards. Notices on campus and on payroll statements

"We are not as concerned with the dollar amount as we are with participation."

Robert Davis

will remind them to donate. Cash donations will be accepted, or money can be deducted from payroll checks, as little as $1 a month.

"We are not as concerned with the dollar amount as we are with participation," Davis said.

"Our goal is continuing visibility. Anything to heighten visibility. We want people to know the campaign is going on before they get the pledge card. People are generally aware that there is a United Way, but aren't aware of campaigning on campus."

Enthusiasm is key. If there is support, the campaign will work," he said.

The Orlando United Way chapter serves an estimated 300,000 people in the tri-county area by distributing funds to 86 human-care agencies. The agencies finance more than 150 programs including child care, youth services, substance abuse, homes and shelters, family life and counseling, and emergency and multi-care services.

W. Rex Brown, associate dean of library development, is co-chairman with Davis. They are supported by approximately 40 coordinators, one per university department, along with numerous other volunteers.

Reach Out With Love

Now more than ever, your contribution to United Way is the best way to reach out with love to those with human care needs in our community.

Here are the facts:

- One in three people call on United Way agencies for help every year.
- Ninety-one cents out of every dollar you give goes directly to the 86 agencies United Way supports.
- The money you give stays in the community helping narrow the gap between needs and services.
- Volunteers make United Way work efficiently and effectively. By donating thousands of hours, they keep administrative and fundraising costs to a minimum.

Please be generous when asked to give, and help build a better community for all of us -- the "United Way."

Tasty Fund-Raiser Music To University

The Altamonte Mall will become a showcase of UCF student musical talent and food prepared by some of Central Florida's finest restaurants on Sunday, Oct. 14, when the shopping center hosts a gala fund-raiser to build UCF's endowment for academic scholarships.

Proceeds from the evening of food and entertainment (possibly as much as $50,000, according to UCF Community Relations Director Candice Crawford) will go into the Alumni Trust, a fund that was formed by UCF alumni to attract support for scholarships for high-performing students.

The $50,000 is to be matched with pledges and commitments from the on-going Alumni Trust campaign in order to qualify for an additional $50,000 under the state of Florida's gift matching program.

"The evening promises to be fun for everyone," Crawford said. "Besides fine food and performances by UCF student musicians, Lisa Maile's modeling agency will present a fashion show. In addition, there will be a silent auction and lots of door prizes, ranging up to a 14-foot fishing boat."

Tickets for the event cost $25, and may be purchased through TicketMaster or in the UCF University Relations office, room 350, administration building. Tickets purchased at the mall the evening of the 6:30-9:30 p.m. function will cost $30.

The idea for the event came from the DeBartolo Corp., owner of a chain of malls, including the Florida and Altamonte Malls. The company has successfully organized fund raisers featuring food and entertainment for non-profit causes at malls in New Orleans and in Florida.

The DeBartolo Corp. is underwriting many of the evening's costs. In order to accommodate the "fun" festival, the mall will be closed earlier than usual on Oct. 14.

"The whole community is pitching in to make the event successful," Crawford said. "Area restaurants are donating the food and many businesses have donated goods for the door prizes and silent auction. WDBO radio and WFTV-Channel 9 will help promote our UCF/Altamonte Mall Scholarship Gala."

People ...

Pat Manning (professor of education/Brevard Campus) was the National Science Teachers Association regional coordinator for the NASA Educational Workshop for Elementary Teachers, held at Kennedy Space Center in July. Twenty-two elementary teachers from throughout the United States attended the two-week workshop. Teachers interacted with three astronauts and Barbara Morgan, NASA Teacher-in-Space designer, and with project managers and scientists who work in all phases of the space shuttle transportation system.

Sarah Pappas (associate vice president/academic affairs and director/Daytona Beach Campus) recently delivered the keynote address at a conference sponsored by the Community Education Program and Delta Kappa Gamma chapter of Volusia County. She spoke on "The Positive Power of Leadership."

Kuppapalle Vajravelu (associate professor/mathematics) delivered a series of hour-long lectures for students and faculty at Sri Venkateswara University in Tirupati, India, on July 27-28. His topic: boundary layer theory and heat transfer. The trip was partially supported by grants from UCF's International Studies and Sri Venkateswara University's department of mathematics.

Edward Suh (associate professor/social work) presented a paper "Bio-Psycho-Social Factors Involved in Battered Child Syndrome" at the second World Meeting of Legal Medicine, fourth meeting of the Pan-American Association of Forensic Sciences, and the sixth meeting of the Colombian Society of Legal Medicine and Forensic Sciences, all in Bogota, Colombia, June 4-8.

John Salter (associate professor/accounting) made a presentation titled "Accounting Communication and Miscommunication" to the Mid-

Florida chapter of the National Association of Accountants on Aug. 28. Over the past 15 years, Dr. Slater has served the NAA as president of the chapter, president of the Florida Council, and twice as a member of the national board of directors. He currently serves on the organization's national committee on education.

Moshe Pelli (director/Judaic Studies) received a certificate of appreciation from Florida Secretary of State Jim Smith for his participation in the 38th annual Florida Folk Festival in July. Smith thanked Pelli for "helping to make possible the Ethnic Celebrations Folklife Area."

Subject: State of Florida Voucher for Reimbursement of Traveling Expenses (Form 41-901 (6-90))

Because of the withholding and other requirements of the IRS, the travel voucher, Form C676 (Rev. 7/86), was revised in June to segregate Class "C" meals from other travel expenses paid on or after July 1. The new form for reimbursement of traveling expenses is Form 41-901 (6-90).

The State Comptroller has allowed a transition period to allow the use of the old form as long as there is no Class "C" meal involved in the travel. The last date for use of the old form has been set for Sunday, Sept. 30. Employee and non-employee travel incurred Monday, Oct. 1, or after must be submitted on Form 41-901 (6-90).

athletic program," and "good town-gown relations." Even UCF's notoriously slow elevators helped make the guide's case of a school on the go: "Indeed, when one of the biggest gripes on campus is that building elevators move too slow, you know you've got a campus in a hurry."

The UCF description is broken into sections that profile various aspects of the university, including the student body, academics, facilities and campus life.

The concluding section, "bottom line," summarizes the overall, upbeat tone by quoting a UCF student: "UCF offers the advantages of a big state school, football games, Greek system and lower tuition, yet it has a small-school atmosphere, smaller classes, and dedicated faculty who give personal attention," observes a recent graduate. "UCF has never disappointed me."
